Concerned cold light

LED cold light doesn't have infrared radiation. With nanocoating radiator, get the excellent cooling effect (3.3mW/mlx). This solves doctor's head temperature problems in surgery, creating a more comfortable surgical environment for doctors; also effectively prevent dehydration and infection of surgical wound, help patients recover quickly after operation.

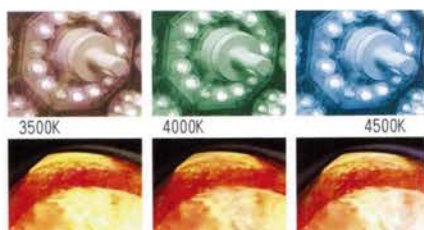

Humanized R9 function

In particular, we increase the R9 function (R9=93). R9 is CRI against red. Especially for the deep and penetrative red, the effect is more obvious, which is critical in surgery. With R9, you can accurately see the red tissue's differences and delicate details, and make your eyes more relaxed, more focused.

High temperature

High temperature Ra=96, increasing color difference between blood and other body tissues, organs, making your vision clearer in surgery, various tissues, organs is easier to distinguish, this is not available for common shadowless operation light.

Adjustable color

You can choose the most appropriate light color according to your own preferences or tissue type, wound structure texture and so on. This function not only can help you more clearly distinguish between different tissue types, but also allows you to more accurately perceive the true color of tissues. At the same time, switch of different color also help you concentrate, and reduce errors caused by fatigue.
